

Clay County Extension offers many 4-H opportunities for youth to grow and learn. The largest 4-H program in Clay County is Shooting Sports with over 90 active 4-H youth participating.

Clay County 4-H Shootings Sports program continues to grow. Youth work with Certified and Volunteer Leaders. The primary focus is safety of handling firearms with supervision. This program encourages family involvement in recreational activities. Paige Wolfe, a mom and volunteer said: “I wanted to become a leader in Archery because I have watched my daughter gain so much knowledge and confidence. Not only is she learning but I am learning so much as well. I want to make sure kids can continue to experience this unique skill/sport.”
