

Cass County

Impact At-A-Glance

Brought to you by Nebraska Extension

cass.unl.edu

Cass County Extension gives opportunities for 4-H alumni to give back to the county 4-H program they learned, and grew from.

Trey Lamkins was a Cass 4-H member for six years. “My years as a 4-H member fostered and grew my love for strong communities, animals, plants and the importance of involvement,” Trey said. This year, he returned as a 4-H intern. Throughout the summer he led workshops, developed and taught enrichment activities, and organized an educational event for youth during county fair. Trey applied for this internship as a 4-H alum to give back to his community. “I learned a great deal about Extension, being a part of something bigger than myself, and how important it is to offer tools that influence an

Programs At-A-Glance

- 52% of Cass County Elementary students participated in one or more agricultural literacy programs
- 133 Cass County seniors from three school districts participated in a day-long connecting the dots program and learned about college and career opportunities after high school

28%

Cass County schools increased in school enrichment participation

1 IN 3

Cass County youth are reached through 4-H, school enrichment, after school, and special interest programming

100% of all 3rd graders in public school districts participated in STEM school enrichment program