

Nuckolls & Thayer Counties Impact At-A-Glance

Brought to you by Nebraska Extension

southernplains.unl.edu

Nearly 100 people throughout the nation have attended presentations on Business Transition Models where they laughed and learned.

Business Transitions are important for a community, but many business owners aren't familiar with the business transition models that are available. Cooperative Business Development Specialist Cindy Houlden says, "The Business Transition Models brochure produced by Jason Tuller's team is a valuable resource. The explanations and graphics make it easy to guide the group through each transition model and the necessary steps. One group successfully transitioned from a multi-owner LLC to a community-based cooperative."

Programs At-A-Glance

- A collaboration with Lawrence-Nelson schools has allowed us to provide school enrichment lessons to 100% of the elementary students three times this year.
- The Southern Plains Citizen Trip included 19 youth who were able to experience a trip to Washington D.C. and other important historical locations.

92

loaves of bread were made by Lawrence-Nelson elementary students using Bread in a Bag curriculum.

200

youth in five communities were reached this summer through the 4-H Reading Connections Program.

16

youth attended our first ever Nuckolls County Roping Clinic with two subsequent clinics scheduled