

Stanton County 2024 Impact At-A-Glance

Stanton.unl.edu

4-H impacts youth by providing opportunities for learning and growth through outdoor activities. These experiences not only boost confidence but also reveal the joys of mastering new skills.

Collin Hassebrock, an 8-year-old from Stanton, Nebraska, participated in a memorable outdoor adventure event hosted by the Stanton County 4-H Council at the fairgrounds. Designed for youth ages 7–14, the event provided a unique opportunity for kids to explore activities such as tomahawk throwing, pellet guns, fishing, and archery. It was part of the community's commitment to offering engaging, safe, and hands-on learning experiences. The Stanton County Shooters' Club played a crucial role in ensuring safety throughout the event. With experienced instructors guiding the youth through each activity, safety was a top priority—especially when handling equipment like tomahawks and pellet guns and during archery sessions.

Programs At-A-Glance
4-H offers a chance for youth to learn new skills and increases valuable opportunities for community engagement. By offering access to these exciting activities, we help foster a sense of accomplishment, teamwork, and self-confidence.
