

February 12, 2024
Kerry Elsen
Buffalo County Extension
For Immediate Release

CLOVER by 4-H

4-H is continually looking for methods to provide opportunities for all youth. The newest opportunity is CLOVER by 4-H. CLOVER provides online, interactive activities for youth, ages 5-18 years old and is designed to be as fun as it is educational. There are more than 190 activities that provide impactful learning experiences from a collaboration of more than 100 universities across the U.S.

CLOVER allows for youth to find their spark and as they are able to participate in hands-on activities that include topics from creating to technology to financial management. Each course provides the amount of time the project takes, and the number of activities included. Courses are all online and youth are able to receive badges for the courses they complete and can be customized by the learner.

Participants under 13 years old will need to have the help of an adult to create an account to start exploring. There is no cost to join CLOVER. Go ahead and create an account and see all the programs that are offered through CLOVER. You can join or find more information about CLOVER at, <https://4-h.org/clover/about/>.

To find information on your local 4-H program, visit our website at, <https://extension.unl.edu/statewide/buffalo/> or call the Buffalo County Extension Office at 308-236-1235.