How a Chick Hatches

Name _____

At last, the shell breaks apart and the chick pulls itself out.

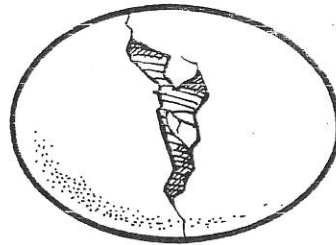

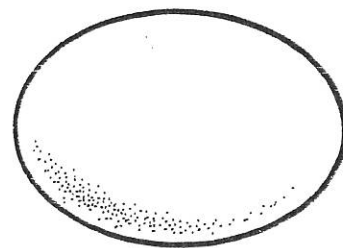

Two hours later the chick is fluffy and active. It will grow quickly and be full-grown in six months.

The chick pecks and turns until it has cracked the shell all the way around.

It takes 21 days for a chick to develop inside a fertile egg. The egg must be kept warm by the hen or in an incubator.

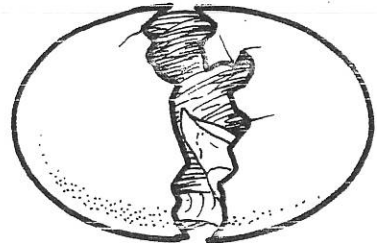

The tired, wet chick flops down to rest. Its feathers begin to dry.

The chick pushes with its body and feet to make the crack bigger.

When the chick is ready to hatch, it pecks a hole in its shell.
