Carroll's programming encompasses leadership, community economic development and information technology. She teaches concepts and skills people use to enhance rural communities throughout the state.

She earned her Bachelor and Master Degrees from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1977 and 1987, respectively. Her undergraduate degree major was in Textiles, Clothing and Design. Her graduate program included an Interdepartmental Home Economics degree with an emphasis on housing and a minor in Community and Regional Planning.

Welte began her extension career in 1988. As a displaced city-girl whose childhood was influenced by industry, her strengths include empowering people in communities to create better futures
